31ST YEAR—NO. 30.

1,500 VISITORS TO BAY ST. LOUIS ON SATURDAY, AUG. 26

Employees of D. H. Holmes Company, New Orleans, Will Spend Fourth Saturday in August at Bay St. Louis on Annual Outing—Largest Crowd From Any One Firm to Visit Here—Bay St. Louis Won Over Other Places As Competitors.

MAYOR R. W. WEBB LARGELY INSTRUMENTAL IN GETTING VISITORS.

Covington and One Other Point Along the Mississippi Gulf Coast Contenders—Employees Were Called Upon to Cast Ballot, and Bay St. Louis Won—Local Institutions Have Extended the Visitors Every Facility For Entertainment and Comfort.

All aboard for Bay St. Louis! This will be the call in New Orleans bright and early on the morning of Saturday, August 26th, when fifteen hundred employees of the D. H. Holmes Company will spend the day in Bay St. Louis in their general annual outing.

It was known from some time that the visitors were intending, visiting some nearby point for a day's recreation, but it was impossible to learn what place was to be favored. Mayor R. W. Webb, officers and others of the Bay-Waveland Yacht and Athletic Club became busy and extended the most cordial invitations. The Yacht Club appointed a special committee and passed suitable resolutions which were officially presented.

However, it was learned that it took something more than an invitation to get the visitors here. Other places were after the number. Covington had already gotten busy and one other point along the Mississippi Gulf Coast besides Bay St. Louis had shown much activity in this direction. But Bay St. Louis was not to be bested.

We, who live here, know it that Bay St. Louis is the best place in the world—barring none—and we wish to share with others. Mayor Webb made a special trip to New Orleans and several letters from other sources were sent in to headquarters.

Result: A letter received this week—

D. H. Holmes Co., Ltd., New Orleans. Office of Welfare Director. July 26th, 1922.

Mr. R. W. Webb, Mayor, Bay St. Louis, Miss.

Dear Mr. Webb: I am glad to tell you that our employees have voted to hold the outing of Saturday, August 26th, in Bay St. Louis. Although the L. & N. could not do much for us in the way of a rate, still we considered that it would be quite worth while to give our people one good, jolly day, so we have planned to make the trip to your city.

I understand from your letter that we will have the use of the public pier for bathing as well as the use of the St. Stanislaus College pier for the men. That we will be able to use the Yacht Club building for the dancing as well as for dressing rooms, and we will have the use of the City Hall grounds for picnicking.

I shall try to run over for the day some time in the near future so as to see that everything is in shape for our coming. I shall notify you ahead

A special election will be held in Hancock county Monday—but only in that district embraced by the territory of the Sellers Consolidated Line School. Purpose of election is to decide whether the people are willing to a proposed bond issue of $10,000 for the building of a new brick school building.

It will be remembered some time back the frame school building at Sellers was completely destroyed by fire. Insurance covered the loss and as a result there is about $4,000 on hand for rebuilding. But on second thought the people of Sellers and vicinity have evinced a desire to build of brick. Something that would be commemorative of the progressive spirit and of the disposition that there is nothing too good for the cause of education. But it takes money to build of brick. The money on hand at present is sufficient to replace the frame building destroyed. Ten thousand dollars is the amount of the proposed bond issue, and when the ballots will have been counted Monday night it will then be known whether the people wish to bond themselves further (in addition to other bonds in that district) for school purposes, or will they be content with a frame building.

Sentiment is pretty well divided at Sellers, and the result of voting will be close.

With very good wishes, and hoping that everything will turn out as we plan, I am, very sincerely yours, ADELE DROUET, Welfare Director.

Of this vast number, it is safe to say a large number will remain over for Sunday and until Monday morning, spending the full week-end, and every resident and every other visitor here is going to make it very pleasant for the people from D. H. Holmes where the feminine population love to shop to their heart's content.

We wish these fifteen hundred people or more to enjoy their stay to the utmost. The town will be turned over to them for their pleasure and comfort.

CONSTRUCTION OF HIGHWAYS IN MISSISSIPPI.

Beginning of Epoch Was Marked by Federal Aid Road Act.

The construction of the improved highways in Mississippi and all over the United States has taken a rapid stride in the past six years, more new and improved highways having probably been built, than in the preceding fifteen years. The beginning of this epoch was marked by the passage of the Federal Aid Road act, by which Congress agreed to match State funds appropriated for the construction of highways. This act was amended in 1919 and 1921, and the provisions for securing Federal co-operation made a little more drastic each time.

The extent to which Mississippi has benefited by this act is shown by the fact that since its passage in 1916 the Federal government has allotted to Mississippi approximately $8,528,000 for the building of its highways, this allotment including the $3,278,000 recently appropriated by Congress to cover the next three years. Of this allotment, $2,862,814.40 has already been received and spent and vouchers to the amount of $76,965.78 have been forwarded, but have not had time to go through the necessary channels of the government. The recent appropriation of $3,278,000 is now being apportioned among counties by the State Highway Commission, and will go a long way towards the completion of Mississippi's proposed State highway system. Forty-two Federal aid projects have been completed in the State and forty-one more are under construction, while plans for as many more are being drawn up and submitted to Federal and State authorities.

The continuation of these allotments as far as Mississippi is concerned, however, has been seriously threatened by the amended Federal Highway Act of 1921. By this act the government, recognizing the fact that investment of money in good roads is worse than futile unless the roads are maintained, safeguards maintenance provision. This provision requires that all roads heretofore built or to be built with federal aid must be maintained by the State highway department, providing further that in the event these roads are not maintained by the State highway department they shall be put in to condition by the secretary of agriculture, and the State forfeit its right to participate in further federal allotments. Under the Mississippi constitution the State highway department has no authority to take over these roads as required, since the boards of supervisors are given full jurisdiction over roads, ferries and bridges in their respective counties. The last legislature recognized this fact, and submitted to the people an amendment to the constitution, giving the State highway department full jurisdiction over those roads designated by the legislature as state highways. These highways are to comprise a State highway system, consisting of not more than seven per cent of all the roads, upon which all federal aid will in the future be expended. This amendment is to be voted on at the general elections in November, and present indications point to its adoption.

Under the Federal act, every State is compelled to adopt a State highway system and federal and state engineers are co-operating in mapping out a highway system which will serve the whole United States. Tentative program maps have been received already from all but eight of the States. These systems are the systems of adjacent States and plotted on a large map, and carefully examined as to co-ordination with service to all sections of the country.

WIDELY KNOWN COUPLE MARRIES.

Wesson, July 27.—A wedding of much interest because of the prominence of the contracting parties was solemnized here yesterday at the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Rea, when their daughter, Miss Alma Rea, became the bride of Mr. Hicks Kirby. The parlor was decorated with ferns and dahlias. Miss Kate Rea, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and the wedding march was played by Miss Virgie Mae Little.

Mrs. Kirby is the sister of Robert E. Rea, and daughter of J. S. Rea, cashier and assistant cashier of the Bank of Wesson. The groom is a member of the bar at Clarksdale and the prosecuting attorney of Coahoma county. The couple left immediately for points in South Mississippi.

Among the out-of-town guests for the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. Kirby, of New Orleans; Mrs. George Rea, of Bay St. Louis, and Mrs. George Walker, sister of the bride, of Stoneville.

Howitzer Company at Camp Williamson For Two Weeks in National Encampment—Much Praise For Capt. Waller and Lieut. Arceneaux and For Sergeant Meyer, Who Will Accompany Boys Home—Young Netos Prove the Mettle That Is in Him—Calls Doyen Officers.

Bay St. Louis Baseball Team Gives Laurel Drubbing—Gerald Price Breaks Bat—Boys Are Due Home Monday Night and Will Be Met at Depot By Band—Complimentary Dance Same Night at Bay Cafe and Night Following at Beach Drug Store.

Special to The Sea Coast Echo.

Up to noon Monday, July 24, the Howitzer Company of Bay St. Louis, Miss., still ranked as the model company of the National Guards at Camp Williamson, Vicksburg.

This company had mounted guard for the second time and each private who walked his post, did it not only in a military manner but with enthusiasm, that was noticeable by all who came in contact with them. That old slogan, "They all look alike to me," was manifested by Harold Neto, while walking his post. A couple of army officers parked their car in the wrong place, and young Neto, after giving them the proper salute, politely asked them to park their cars on the opposite side of the road. This was an act of carelessness on the part of the officers, or else the act was directed in order to try young Neto. Be it as it may, these officers obeyed his command. No other demands were necessary from them on.

Much Praise For Sargeant Meyer. While Captain Waller and Lieut. Arceneaux are very active and enthusiastic, and have worked in season and out of season, yet we feel that the success of the company is due largely to the splendid training given the boys by Sargeant Meyer, who had been with us for several months prior to our encampment at Camp Williamson. So strongly do we feel and appreciate his ability to train and his willingness to do so, that we passed an embargo on other companies who tried to take him from us. And when the company reaches Bay St. Louis Monday night, July 31, you can look for Sargeant Meyer with them.

The Hottest of Hot Days.

The hottest of all hot days for the boys of the H. O. W. Co. was Saturday, when they pitched their tents on the open drill field. This work was done between 11 and 12 o'clock. Overhauled and the pressure overhead and the rapidity of the boys below, it was declared by the inspector that OUR, the tents of the H. O. W. Co., were the most nearly perfect of any line on the field.

Capt. Waller Receives Unusual Honors.

The interest, coupled with ability, of Captain Waller brought double duty on him before the middle of the week. The army officers left it entirely to Captain Waller to work out his own plan and schedule for his company. I was indirectly informed that this was an honor conferred upon no other captain in the entire encampment.

Just a word about the Nom. Coms. It was unanimously that they did keep their feet on the ground, even if their heads did touch the stars. Frankly speaking, we had a nice set of Nom. Coms. and appreciate the interest they manifested in the company.

Sargeant Bourgeois and his cook, George Heitzman, are still feeding the boys on beans, cabbage, potatoes and hash to their heart's delight.

Gerald Price Breaks Bat.

Another rest day brought out the second ball team to give the H. O. W. Co. the drubbing that she gave the first nine from Lambric the Sunday before. This team represented Company G, from Laurel, Miss. The husky nine-pounders of Company G met the team from the H. O. W. Co., composed of Earl Strong, first base; Victor Lee, second base; Forest Favre, third base; G. Price, catcher; R. Lafontaine, pitcher; Son Capdepont, shortstop; Ben Bourgeois, center field; Wallace Bontemp, right field; Theo. Morel, left field. Notwithstanding that all the odds were in favor of H. O. W. Company, Catcher Gerald Price got his ambition up

ANDERSON'S THEATRE SOLD TO SAENGER COMPANY.

Negotiations For Sale of Property Successfully Concluded in New Orleans.

Gulfport, Miss., July 25.—Anderson's Theatre changed hands today, the ownership of that popular playhouse having been acquired by the Saenger Amusement Company. Mr. Anderson did not state the amount of the purchase price, but said that it was entirely satisfactory to himself. Negotiations for sale of the property were opened several days ago and were successfully concluded in New Orleans, headquarters for the Saenger Company. Anderson's Theatre was thrown open to the public just a day or two before Christmas of last year and met with instant popularity, and the patronage since has been of a satisfactory nature. While a few of Mr. Anderson's close friends knew that a deal was pending for the sale of the house, the news of its acquisition by the Saenger people will prove quite a surprise. The sale of the theatre, Mr. Anderson states, was prompted by his mercantile interests, which require his undivided attention.

J. H. Saenger, head of the Saenger Amusement Company, and W. H. Guerlinger, assistant general manager at New Orleans, came to Gulfport this morning to inspect the new theatre as well as to make a general survey of the community. When seen by a Herald representative, Mr. Saenger spoke without reserve. "We like the whole Mississippi Coast, as shown by our investments. We own two theatres in Gulfport, two in Biloxi and our recreational home for the employees all over our circuit is at Bay St. Louis. The latter place is one of the pet hobbies of the Saenger Amusement Company, for it is here that every employee of the company comes once a year for this vacation period."

This recreational house, Mr. Saenger added, meant a big boosting for the Coast, as it kept the Coast in the minds of a large number of employees scattered in five States. In reply to a question, he said there would be no change in the policy of Anderson's Theatre, at least not for the present. It will be run as a high-class house, where some of the best pictures will be shown. Mr. Underwood, manager of the Strand, will also have the management of the new place. Between the two houses, Mr. Saenger stated that Gulfport will be given whatever pictures are brought to New Orleans, and that means the best pictures produced.

The Saenger Amusement Company operates about seventy-five theatres in Louisiana, Mississippi, Arkansas, Texas and Florida. New houses are under construction or are being planned in the following cities: Shreveport, Texarkana, Pensacola, Alexandria and New Orleans. In the last named city the plan is to erect the third largest theatre in the United States with a seating capacity of 4,000 people. [All of the houses in the other cities named will be combinations open for pictures and road shows and will be modern and no expenses will be spared to make them a credit to the communities in which they will be built. The house at Pensacola, which has been under construction for some time, but which has been delayed for one reason and another, will have a seating capacity of 2,000.

"We come here as boosters," said Mr. Saenger. "We are vitally interested in the community and the whole Mississippi coast and we want to co-operate in whatever is done of a development nature. We want the public to know that our company will always be ready to do its part."

Both Mr. Saenger and Mr. Guerlinger expressed pleasure over the acquisition of Anderson's Theatre and said they wished to assure the public that nothing would be done to cause the public any regrets. They said the theatre would be operated on lines which would give perfect satisfaction.

against his pulling power and broke the only bat obtainable. This was done about the middle of the third inning, thus breaking up the game with a score of 5 to 0 in favor of the Howitzer Company of Bay St. Louis.

To Welcome Boys Home Monday Night.

The boys will be welcomed home by a brass band furnished by the Bay Cafe. This band will meet the company at the train and accompany them to the pavilion of the Bay Cafe, where a dance will be given to the boys of the company. This dance will be followed by a dance given by the proprietor of the Beach Drug Store to the boys of the company on Tuesday night following their arrival.

Looking forward to coming of the H. O. W. Company, I am, T. E. KELLAR, Camp Reporter.

TO GIVE JOBS TO BLACKS IN SOUTH.

Politicians Forecast a Shift in the Original Policy of the President.

Washington, July 27.—Since his inauguration, President Harding has adhered to a policy of no federal jobs for negroes in the South. There are rumors that he is about to make certain exceptions to this policy. One of the exceptions may be the naval office at New Orleans, since that position does not require contact with the public and since the office, during many Republican administrations, was held by a negro.

It is known that negro voters in the North have registered determined protests against the president's policy. Republican leaders in some of the doubtful sections of the North are convinced many negroes will vote with the Democrats at next fall's elections unless further recognition is given their race. This has led to the suggestion that certain offices in the South could be filled by negroes without serious offense to the white population.

Cohen Is Endorsed.

Shortly after the Republicans came into power, Walter Cohen, a New Orleans negro, was endorsed for the naval office. The president, in a personal conference with Cohen, explained the policy which he had adopted. Cohen, on that occasion, told the president he fully understood that the decision was actuated by a desire to do what the president conceived to be in the interest of the common good. He assured the president that his action would in no way dampen his efforts to be of service to the party. Later, the president tendered Cohen the choice of two departmental positions in Washington. These he declined, it is understood, because his private business requires residence in New Orleans.

In view of the possibility of a change in the president's policy, Emile Kuntz, the Republican national committeeman from Louisiana, is understood to have renewed his endorsement of Cohen for the naval office. If the president should decide to nominate a negro for the place it is certain that Cohen would have very general support. The president is understood to have received assurances from prominent persons in New Orleans, who are entirely opposed to the office going to a negro, that they prefer seeing it go to Cohen—long identified with New Orleans—than having it go as a reward to some negro politician from elsewhere.

His central headquarters of Laurel, under the management of Tom Taylor, Mayor of Ellisville, has made a thorough canvass of the situation and desires to announce to the public that every indication shows that Jeff Collins will be elected on the 15th of August, with a majority of 5,000 votes.—Adv.

AUTOMOBILE KILLS 10-YEAR-OLD LAD IN CITY ON WEDNESDAY

Harvey Larkin, Residing Corner of Union and Hancock Streets, Killed Outright By Auto From Waveland While Passing His Place of Residence—Miss Vicki Taquina Driver of Car—Accident Said by Eye-Witnesses to Have Been Unavoidable.

FATHER OF BOY FRANTIC WITH GRIEF AND THREATENS VIOLENCE.

Victim Was Oldest of Three Children—Parents Had Only Moved Here Recently From Interior of Louisiana—Keep a Small Business at Corner Where Tragedy Occurred—Funeral Took Place Thursday and Remains Rest in Calvary Group at St. Mary's Cemetery.

Harvey Larkin, 10 years of age, was the victim of an automobile at about 7 o'clock Wednesday evening, in front of his parents' place of business (a small store) and place of residence.

The car was from Waveland, driven by Miss Vicki Taquina—the Taquina family from New Orleans, spending the summer on the beach front. From eye-witnesses it appears the car was being driven at a fair speed on Hancock street, crossing Union street. The direction was from the north to south. Reaching the Larkin place the boy dashed out from the store into the street, apparently with no care. He ran into the forepart of the car, his head striking first, and after making a complete circle in the air he fell to the ground. The back of his head was badly battered and his body bruised. He was picked up, a mass of blood, and when taken into his home the spark of life had already fled.

The parents were frantic with grief. The boy's father threatened to kill the young miss driving the car. She and members of her family in the car were taken over to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Claud Monti, where they were made comfortable as possible in their state of grief and excitement over what had just occurred. The family immediately communicated with Dr. Taquina, brother of the young lady, a prominent specialist in New Orleans, who came out on the night train.

The funeral was held the next afternoon, Rev. Father Gmelch officiating. The white casket was tenderly placed for safekeeping in the receiving vaults of the Calvary Group at St. Mary's Cemetery. The funeral was an unusually sad one. There were many affecting scenes.

The parents of the victim of this auto tragedy only moved to Bay St. Louis recently from the interior of Louisiana, and opened a place of business. Mr. Larkin expressed great regret at ever leaving his primitive home. He said, there he was with his family tucked away from the vicissitudes of life; free from the possibility of the awful sorrow that has come into his life.

Special Deputy Sheriff J. C. Jones, of Weston District, and Prohibition Agent Boyd captured several stills in Hancock county a few days ago. The capture was made in the Hode Settlement.

VICKSBURG SLIPS WITH WHOOP INTO OLD-TIME SUNDAY.

Vicksburg, Miss., July 28.—After three Sundays in which all the blue laws were enforced, Vicksburg today enjoyed a Sunday of old. The change came about as the result of a mass meeting held at a theatre Thursday night, when resolutions unanimously were adopted modifying the Sunday laws.

The ball game between Greenville and Vicksburg was played this afternoon and was witnessed by a packed grand stand. The motion picture theatres were open and were well patronized, while the pool rooms opened for the sale of tobacco and soft drinks, but the pool and billiard tables remained closed. Out-of-town Sunday papers were sold on the streets.

FILLING THE PAPER.

A newspaper is always in search of the real live news of the community. But because an editor is always eagerly in search of such news and is willing to go to much trouble and expense in obtaining it, people sometimes forget that newspaper space is an expensive proposition, and get the impression that an editor is glad of anything to fill up.

No editor has the slightest trouble to fill up the paper. The real problem is to keep from filling the columns of the paper with "stuff" the readers will not want to wade through to the exclusion of the news matter that they pay to get. There isn't an issue that an editor doesn't consign to the waste basket or turn down enough matter to fill the paper twice over without room for a line of news for advertising.

People often forget that newspaper space is valuable, and that it is about the only thing the newspaper has to sell. They don't seem to understand that it must be disposed of as carefully as a merchant disposes of his stock of goods. Every now and then a Bay St. Louis citizen brings in an item that is not news in any sense of the word, that is advertising pure and simple, and that would mean taking up space to boost someone's business. Even the government is an offender, and every mail brings a lot of propaganda that ought to be paid for, but which is offered "just to help fill up the paper."

The fact that an article has merit doesn't always mean it should be printed. If it isn't news the only question to be considered is whether it will be sufficiently interesting to the majority of our readers, that they would like to read it, and whether it is more interesting and of more value than other matter that will have to be omitted if it is given space. And the editor alone must be the judge of that.

GETTING RID OF THE RAT.

Man shares this planet with many kinds of other animals. He likes to think of himself and his own kind as the most important tenants here on earth, and for the most part he has succeeded in establishing himself and his claim to his own satisfaction. Curiously enough it is not the larger beasts of prey which most threatens man. His chief danger lurks in the increasing power of pests, insects and vermin of all kinds, and in the increasing range of their destructiveness. In his defense against these, man has made but little headway, while they are increasing to an extent that is terrifying to scientists familiar with their encroachments on man's domain.

There is something almost pathetic in the fact that an animal apparently so insignificant as the rat should be today one of the most destructive of man's enemies. At a conservative estimate this rodent costs the American people something like $200,000,000 a year, and Bay St. Louis and community pays its share of that vast sum. Until of late there has been carried on a defensive campaign against the rat. When in any locality rats have become too numerous, the campaigns have become active—everybody joined in killing rats—and then they stopped the good work as soon as a considerable number had been done away with. Outside of the property loss which it inflicts, the rat is a menace to the health of the citizens of the community. As a carrier of disease germs fatal to man there is no animal more active than the rat. For that reason alone, if for no other reason, the battle against them should continue for 365 days in the year.

PASSING.

Where is the old-fashioned home, with its huge double log house with large yard and straight fence of rails or poles; with its broad gravel walk, the yard filled with honeysuckle, lilac, red roses, snowball, ground ivy and other flowers and shrubbery so common before potted plants invaded the rural sections? What has become of the martin box on a tall, straight pole, filled with chattering martins, and where are the little group of beehives that used to sit in the corner of the yard, on past the old well with its windlass and rope that was breaking and letting the bucket back into the well just at the most inopportune time? And where is the long cap-and-ball rifle that once rested on two brackets, or two deer horns nailed parallel above the door, with the powder horn and charger hanging nearby? We also miss the half-dozen Indian arrow heads that lay in the bottom of the home-made willow basket on the stand table in the middle of the "best room" and likewise the decorated, tortoise shell and varnished pine cone and other curios picked up from nature's garden of riches. If you have a chance to see this old home again, brother, take a good look, for they are rapidly passing away.

What we've never been able to understand about civilized man is why he cuts down trees to build a city and then plants trees to build a park.

We also recall that there wasn't so much meanness in the world when all we used gasoline for was to clean clothes.

MODERN DAYS ARE BEST.

Often we hear older people, in deploring the modern-day whirl in which we Americans live, longing for the good old days gone by. Although we sometimes grow weary of the recklessness, thoughtlessness and turmoil of this age, we really wonder if any American would be willing to reverse and accept old manners, methods and customs, abandon some of our modern conveniences, just for the sake of going backward to those never-forgotten days.

For example, it would be a lot of trouble and one would hate to have to hitch up just to drive down the street or around the corner. In the old days of non-delivery it was extremely inconvenient for the housekeeper to have to dress and go to market, or to town to get sufficient material to complete the garment on which she was working.

The modern day has reduced the housekeeping task to the minimum, and no longer is the work of the home-maker one of never-ending drudgery, due to the electric lighting system, vacuum cleaner, telephone, motor car, heating systems, etc. When one pauses to recount the blessings of today as compared with those of our yesterday, a feeling of thankfulness comes when we note our modern conveniences. No one wants to bring back the days when no ice was manufactured and butter and milk were left into the well to keep cool.

What man or woman would recall the day of the long skirts which dragged in the dust, or the fashions once worn by gentlemen, their clothes being beruffled and uncomfortable? Although the flapper of today brings chagrin and disgust to some of our old-fashioned folk, yet we of the twentieth century have improved so materially in so many ways that offset defects that we wouldn't turn back.

YOUR JOB.

Many residents of towns the size of Bay St. Louis make the mistake of thinking that the only opportunities worth having are in the big cities. But it is a good idea to remember that in a big city, with higher wages, you have higher living expenses. People in big cities live at such a rate and spend so much time covering long distances that they have little thought or interest for strangers. You may find employment in a store or factory where you never know the man or woman in the next department, or what they are doing. You may work for five years in an organization and never see the "boss." An office position may mean that you are forced to sit at a desk on one monotonous process day in and day out, while in the smaller towns, where everyone knows you and you know everyone, a job means that a dozen times a day you have an opportunity to be "assistant to the head of the concern."

A GREAT LESSON.

There is a great lesson for the Bay St. Louis man or woman who is constantly imagining they are ill, in the life and death of Herbert McCarty, who died a few weeks ago in Pennsylvania. He was a world-war veteran and shortly before the armistice was signed he was riddled with German bullets. He was brought home to battle for life for almost four years in hospitals, with twenty machine gun bullets in his body. In 48 operations he underwent, 18 of them had been removed. The other two he carried to the grave with him. During the 48 operations the surgeons removed 14 of his ribs, his collarbone and part of one shoulderblade. His wounds and the operations made a wreck of his body, but despite this he had recovered, prior to his death, sufficiently to leave the hospital for short periods. That he lived for four years with such physical shock is almost unbelievable. But he did, and therein is a lesson for those who are constantly complaining of little aches and pains, those whose ailments are largely imaginary—those who appear to think nature holds some special grudge against them.

OUR GREAT LIBRARIAN.

The following editorial complimentary to Mississippi's State Librarian, Mrs. W. F. Marshall, is deserved and that Mrs. Marshall was selected for an honor from 2,000 delegates is noteworthy. The Hinds County Gazette says:

"Mrs. W. F. Marshall, the accomplished and popular State Librarian, who attended the American Association of Law Libraries at Detroit, Mich., brought home with her the honor of second vice president of that organization, a compliment Mrs. Marshall graciously says as much to the South as to herself. Mrs. Marshall was the only member of that organization from this part of the United States elected to any position. There were nearly two thousand delegates present. Much benefit and pleasure was derived by those who attended. Mrs. Marshall is a native of Union county, and has hundreds of friends at New Albany and other places in North Mississippi, who will be glad to know of the distinguished honor conferred upon her."

Determined in his effort to break up the divorce evil, Judge E. A. Griffith, of the Chancery Court, made a record at a recent term of court held in Gulfport. During the term of court a great number of divorce cases were considered, and of these five were granted divorces, all of which were meritorious. Several of the cases were sent back to the special divorce commissioner for further investigation, but most of them were denied. IMPORTANT NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS OF HANCOCK COUNTY.

TO THE TAXPAYERS:

The Supervisors are required by law to equalize assessments of property, at their July meeting; and to hear objections to the assessments, at their August meeting. Unless you complain at that time, the law denies you the right to do so afterwards.

The Tax Commission wants you to go before the Board of Supervisors with objections to the assessments of those who are trying to "get by." Many of those who wish to escape taxation, go before the Supervisors with their complaints; yet none do so to protest against the tax-dodger's assessment. The Board is usually left alone to resist the onslaught of the tax-dodgers. The Supervisors not only need your moral support, but they need information as to what property is not listed on the rolls and as to what property is listed at an undervaluation. Examine the roll and point out to the Supervisors who is about to "get by."

There are several hundred thousand children in Mississippi to be educated. The gallantry of the Confederate soldier is to be commemorated by Confederate pensions. The ravages of tuberculosis and other malignant diseases are to be halted if possible. The afflicted are to be treated. The insane are to be cared for. Good roads are to be constructed and maintained. Many other things of the kind are to be provided for. This cannot be done without taxation. Taxation cannot be just unless the Supervisors equalize the assessments fairly. These things cover ninety-five per centum of your taxes.

If the tax dodger succeeds, either these things will be meagerly provided for; or the tax rates will be increased, and the taxpayer who has given in to the highest assessment, made to pay more than his just share of taxes. Tax rates are very high in Mississippi. The explanation of this is that so much property is not assessed on the rolls and so much property is undervalued that the Supervisors are compelled to increase the tax rate to make up for the shortage in the total revenues to be collected. Such method penalizes honesty and patriotism. It would certainly be fairer to increase the tax-dodger's assessment, and collect the needed funds by forcing him to pay his just portion of the tax burden, instead of burdening the honest taxpayers with higher tax rates.

By giving in your assessment for less than the value of your property and by omitting property from your tax list, maybe you can save yourself ten or fifteen dollars, or even more, of taxes; but just think what you will be doing: you will be giving your support and endorsement to tax-dodging. Such practice ties the hand of your Government, which is doing so much for her citizens—protecting your property, the life and liberty of yourself and your dear ones; educating your children; and doing many more things for your welfare. Your dodging your just share of taxes will enable the big taxpayers to do so, too, and they will cheat your State and County Government out of thousands of dollars of taxes. The expenses of keeping three or four children in school during the free school term would be far greater than the taxes of the average taxpayer, if such expenses were borne by private subscription. Do you feel that you can afford to cripple such beneficent Government to save so little?

Some Supervisors explain to their friends: "We did not want to increase your assessment; but the State Tax Commission compelled us to do so." If you will examine the law, you will find that the Tax Commission has not been given the authority to fix the assessment against any individual; but that such authority has been entrusted only to the Supervisors. The State Tax Commission has control only over the total assessment of each class of property. We have no control over the amount of money expended by the State Government. This and the tax rate for it are fixed by the Legislature. We have no control over the amount of money expended by the county. This and the tax rates for it are fixed by the Supervisors. We are charged only with the duty of equalizing the total assessment of each class of property, one county compared with the others. Do not mistake this an apology to the tax-dodgers, because we would be too glad to make every tax-dodger toe the mark, if we had the authority of law to fix assessments against individuals. We urge you to co-operate with us in our efforts to get the Supervisors to assess all taxpayers properly, without fear or favor; for they alone have such authority.

If the Supervisors fail to make the proper assessment against any taxpayer, please furnish us with the facts, and we will request the Attorney General to appeal from the assessments to the court. If you like, your name will be held in confidence.

Yours very truly,

DUNCAN L. THOMPSON,

Chairman State Tax Commission.

Jackson, Miss., July 18, 1922.

Does Feminine 'Camouflage' Enhance Or Spoil Charm?

What is a "real woman?" What is the essence of femininity, shorn of all the conventions and subtleties that make the modern woman an altogether unknown quantity?

Those are the questions William J. Locke has tried to answer in this "The Morals of Marcus Ordeyne," the film version of which opens at the A. & G. Theatre Monday, under the title, "Morals."

"Carlotia," played by May McAvoy, is an English girl brought up in a Turkish harem. Keared to be absolutely frank, to look forward to marriage and to discuss her matrimonial prospects without reservations, she casts a bombshell into polite English society when circumstances make her the ward of staid Sir Marcus Ordeyne.

She is different from any woman Sir Marcus has ever met. Her simple frankness embarrasses him tremendously—but when she leaves him for a few days he finds that the sheer appeal of her unspoiled innocence, her freedom from civilized feminine camouflage, have completely won his sedate, bachelor heart.

But the author does not allow this love to be consummated easily. There is a series of tremendously dramatic situations intervening which provide much of the production's entertainment.

A rare treat is promised patrons of the A. & G. Theatre Wednesday, when the management will show "The Face of the World," Irvin V. Willat's newest production for Hodgkinson release.

This "great picture which was adapted to the screen from the world-famous novel of the same name by Johan Bojer, deals with the adventures and misadventures of Dr. Harold Mark and Thora, his young bride, played by Edward Hearn and Barbara Bedford. There is a villain—naturally—and in this particular instance, a most plausible and fascinating one—for this important role has been entrusted to Lloyd Whitlock, one of the most popular actors appearing before the camera today. He does his best to win the beautiful Thora, and for a while it looks as though he were going to succeed, but Fate intervenes, and in a singularly appealing climax sets everything right.

Some of the big moments of the production are the wrecking of a high-powered racing car—the burning of a three-story building and a rescue from the flames, which, by the way, almost cost Edward Hearn his life when the scene was being photographed.

"The Face of the World" is one production which the good people of Bay St. Louis simply cannot afford to miss.

ZIEGFELD'S BEAUTY CHORUS APPEAR IN PICTURES.

Support Constance Talmadge in "Folly of the Follies."

A score of Ziegfeld Follies' girls add zest and pep to "Folly of the Follies," Constance Talmadge's latest First National attraction. The picture depicts the story of a country girl who breaks into the famous beauty chorus and shows the training of the chorus for the annual review and the performance on the opening night.

In order to preserve the realism of the story, Miss Talmadge decided to have it done in the proper atmosphere and actually engaged the members of the Ziegfeld Beauty Chorus, then playing on Broadway, to fill their own parts in the picture. The result has been a bevy of beauty and a hurricane of action. The dance and ensemble numbers are said to be the best that have ever been seen on the screen.

The dancing of Miss Talmadge was equally surprising to the chorus girls who had seen the star on the screen, had known of her ability to do good comedy and put on excellent screen mimicry, but had never known of her terpsichorean talent.

The story introduces the character of Flo Ziegfeld, the internationally famous creator of beauty choruses, in charge of the rehearsing of one of his reviews. It was impossible to write Mr. Ziegfeld away from his office even for the short part in the picture, so Bernard Randolph, an actor who bears a close resemblance to Mr. Ziegfeld took the part. At the A. & G. Theatre Thursday night.

If you've never seen Constance Talmadge as a chorus girl here's your chance. In her latest picture, "Folly of the Follies," the star makes her debut with Flo Ziegfeld's famous beauty chorus. It's also her finish.

Kenneth Harlan, who has played opposite Miss Constance Talmadge in many of the star's recent pictures, will be seen as her leading man again in her latest offering, "Folly of the Follies."

Few pictures have revealed the manner in which restless and complaining patients in sanatoriums are diplomatically treated better than "A Voice in the Dark," a Goldwyn mystery film. One striking instance may be cited: An elderly woman cripple, constantly complaining of her inability to sleep, is relieved immediately by carefully measured doses of plain water and sugar. She saw the doctor write out the prescription, so she knew she was getting medicine. "A Voice in the Dark" comes to the A. & G. Theatre Friday night, August 4.

Alice Hollister, one of the best known "heavy" leads in pictures, having played the part of the first "vampire" in "The Vampire" and Magdalene in "From the Manager to the Cross," has a remarkable role in the latest Goldwyn release, "A Voice in the Dark," which comes to the A. & G. Theatre for one night, Friday, August 4. She enacts the part of a nurse responsible for a murder that has brought four innocent persons under suspicion.

"A VOICE IN THE DARK" SOLVES MYSTERY.

Exciting Plot in Latest Goldwyn Picture Carries a Genuine Surprise.

A murder mystery with a most unexpected solution forms the basis of the plot of "A Voice in the Dark," a new Goldwyn picture, which comes to the A. & G. Theatre for Friday, August 4. It is a Frank Lloyd production, and declared to be a masterpiece.

The principal scenes of the story are laid at the private sanatorium of one Dr. Hugh Sainsbury, where, among other patients, are Mrs. Lydard, a deaf wheel-chair invalid; Joseph Crampton, an aged, blind man, and Adele Warren, a society girl.

Dr. Sainsbury makes love to Adele, and wins her promise to wed him. Her sister, Blanche, in a nearby city, engaged to Harlan Day, hears of her sister's affair with consternation, for some years previous Dr. Sainsbury had attempted to take advantage of her, and she barely escaped disgrace. She decides to go to the sanatorium and attempt to break the match.

The following day the papers tell of the murder of Dr. Sainsbury. Suspicion points first at one, then at the others of four persons who might have had a motive for the crime. It is through the testimony of the aged Mrs. Lydard, who could see but could not hear, and the invalid Crampton, who could hear but could not see, that the innocent are finally relieved of suspicion. Amelia, a nurse, common-law wife of the physician, confesses she shot him when she discovered he did not intend to marry her.

The surprise element of the play is carefully followed out, so that the audience until the very final scenes, does not know the identity of the murderer.

GLORIA SWANSON IN FILM.

She Has Leading Role in De Mille's "Something to Think About."

Gloria Swanson, who had the leading feminine role opposite Elliott Dexter in "For Better, For Worse," appears in a similar capacity in "Something to Think About," the new Cecil B. De Mille Paramount picture which comes to the A. & G. Theatre next Saturday night. During this past year this talented artist has won many admirers by her splendid acting in "Male and Female" and "Why Change Your Wife?" Elliott Dexter has the leading male role.

Theodore Roberts, veteran Paramount character, has one of the most difficult parts of his screen career in the part of Luke Anderson, the stern father who binds himself in a fit of rage. Rousey gambler of the twentieth century, and speed driver in his many varied roles, Mr. Roberts declares that the part of Luke represents the hardest work he ever did in his life, necessitating as it did a study of all the characteristics peculiar to sightless men.

THE VETERANS WANT PLACE FOR REUNION.

Natchez Withdraws Invitation For Meeting There in September.

The Mississippi division of the United States Veterans is without a place to hold its annual meeting, and will be glad to receive an invitation from some city or town in the State.

It had been planned to hold the reunion in Natchez during the month of September, but for some reason the invitation was withdrawn.

The appeal from the commanding officers follows: "To the Patriotic People of Mississippi—We are just in receipt of a communication from Miss Beatrice Perault, president of the Natchez Chapter of the U. D. C., stating that the invitation to the annual reunion of the United Confederate Veterans has been withdrawn.

"This leaves us without a place to meet. We are open for an invitation from some live, up-to-date, patriotic city. Don't you think you would be part; Claire McDowell, Julia Faye, Mickey Moore, James Mason, Theodore Kosloff and Togo Yamamoto. "Something to Think About" is an original story by Jeanie MacPherson, who was responsible for "Old Wives for New" and the scenario of "Male and Female."

An Exceptional Picture.

Cecil B. De Mille's new Paramount picture, "Something to Think About," which will be shown at the A. & G. Theatre next Saturday, is an exceptional production which is attracting widespread interest all over the country. It is typically a De Mille picture of the highest class.

ARMY NEEDS LIEUTENANTS.

Times-Picayune.—American citizens between the ages of 21 and 30 will be given an opportunity to become commissioned officers of the regular army on September 4, when examinations will be held throughout the country for candidates for commissions from civil life. Those who pass the physical and mental tests successfully will be appointed second lieutenants.

According to a war department announcement, the number of second lieutenants in the army is exceptionally small, and as the army appropriation bill for 1935 provides for 1,721 officers of this rank, an unusually large number of candidates probably will be commissioned.

However, it is expected sufficient copies will be printed in future to meet all demands.

—The artistic and city-like displays in the window of the Bay Jewelry Store attract considerable attention and favorable comment. The firm is thoroughly up-to-date and really leads the pace, and the outward display is simply a reflex of the progressiveness and prosperity of the firm. A breakwater, built of wood was damaged. The McDord, Lelius, Holden and Power residences are situated at that point.

—An alarm of fire at an early hour Sunday morning brought the city fire department to the home of Capt. C. L. Waller, who is away at Vicksburg, attending the annual encampment of the local National Guard. Leonard, Jr. The party had an unusual trip and while at the club last night Mr. Leonard was warmly welcomed by his many local friends and interested all in telling of his trip. At San Francisco and Los Angeles and in Chicago personal friends took charge of the party and every courtesy possible was extended. Both Mr. and Mrs. Leonard are exceedingly popular, thoroughly sincere and democratic, and they are beloved by all who know them.

—Miss Rita Breath returned home last evening from her trip to Colorado and stay at Boulder, where she spent six weeks at normal. During her stay Miss Breath made many side trips, which was part of the normal program, and reports both a profitable and pleasant trip. Her return is warmly welcomed by the hosts of young friends—and older ones, too, for she is universally popular with all.

—While it is a violation of city ordinance, it is also a violation of common sense to allow children to drive trucks and automobiles over the city streets, especially now so congested morning and evening. Bys and girls are not expected to use discretion while driving in "tight places" or know what to do in case of emergency, and the greatest danger lies in the fact that injury is not always sustained to the car driven by the youthful drivers, but by the victim of the inexperienced one. We would like to see the city ordinance in regard to this subject enforced. If not, it should be repealed. Driving an automobile is a great task with its accompanying responsibilities; by no means is it a child's work.

—Mrs. George R. Rea, left during the early part of the week to attend the marriage of her sister-in-law, Miss Alma Rea, to Mr. Robert Hicks Kirby, of Clarksdale, Miss., where they will reside in future. Mrs. Kirby, as Miss Alma Rea, has visited here recently and is no stranger, on the contrary, she has quite a circle of acquaintances who will read of the foregoing announcement with interest.

—Work has begun in earnest on the beach sea wall at Cedar Point. This section of the wall begins at the head of Dunbar avenue and will stop at the head of Felicity street, by Peerless Factory. Mayor Webb is endeavoring to keep front street open for the use of traffic as long as it will be possible and safe for the pleasure of visitors and others who use the drive for pleasure—and for business as well.

BEAUTIFUL DANCE AT GRACE VILLA.

Mr. and Mrs. John D. Grace Host and Hostess to Dance at Their Handsome Home on Waveland Beach Front.

Mr. and Mrs. John D. Grace, whose hospitable home on the fashionable Waveland beach front is ever the scene of interest to many friends at home and from away, was again on Saturday night the place for another enjoyable event.

The occasion was a dance in compliment to their lovely and accomplished young daughters, Misses Virginia, May and Evelyn, and their young friends, and in addition Mr. and Mrs. Grace had invited a few of their older friends.

Decorations of artistic effect added largely to the affair. The large dining room and connecting hall served as the place for dancing. Overhead the ceiling was festooned with Spanish moss and palmetto leaves. From this long lines of electric lights in colored bulbs peeped forth in effective arrangement. Then there were Chinese and Japanese lanterns strung around and in each of these there was an incandescent electric bulb. In all the sight was very pretty. Under the soft lights from the colored globes the couples danced in time to the strains of the Supreme Orchestra from Bay St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. Grace and their sons and daughters entertained their guests with much charm of manner, and nothing was lacking to make the evening the pleasant one that it was so easily proven.

BAY ST. LOUIS MAN HEAD GULF COAST GASOLINE PLANT.

Gulf Refining Company, of Gulfport, Sells Out to Company of Coast Capitalists Headed by A. L. Stokoe.

Business men of South Mississippi have purchased the holdings of the Gulf Coast Oil Refining Company, of Gulfport, Miss., a corporation that was getting ready to do business in Bay St. Louis, building a supply base at the head of the long pier at head of Washington street, belonging to the Bay Sea Food Company.

With A. L. Stokoe, as president of the new corporation, it is expected (and it will) go forward rapidly and it is expected the company will expand in a manner as to give Bay St. Louis comparative value. Mr. Stokoe, live and progressive, and ever affiliated in a great measure with many of the things that appertain to the success and the growth of the Mississippi Gulf Coast, will lead the development of the new company in such a manner as to make all possibilities early realities.

The stock of Charles T. Madison, Ralston S. Cole and H. L. Lasserus has been purchased by A. L. Stokoe, of Gulfport and Bay St. Louis; William Gorenflo, Sr., of Biloxi; John Friar, of Ocean Springs, and Eastman Tate, of Picayune, Miss. The new officers follow: A. L. Stokoe, president and general manager; William Gorenflo, Sr., vice president; T. M. Freeman, secretary; J. W. Carraway, sales manager. Board of directors: A. L. Stokoe, William Gorenflo, Sr., John Friar, Eastman Tate, G. S. Dodds, John J. Vrooman and Dan S. Lehon.

COLUMN de BULL.

By Fuller Ball.

A Stitch in Time. Them wise guys over in the Crescent burg—what we mullet-chasers call "The City"—are goin' after Bro. Ant tooth an' nail these days; anti-ant an' niles have formed an' the battle is on.

Well, Bro. Mullet-Chaser, don't you reckon we better remember that "stitch in time," an' get busy? Aye, an' verily, Bo, for if we let 'em, them ill Argentine family raisers are goin' to do SOME POPULATIN' in the near future an' take full charge of the whole dern burg.

How, How, Howitzer! Last week the Special War Correspondent of The Echo scribed a prose poem 'bout the doin's of the crack 155th, who now hideth in the swelled country round Vicksburg long with the Hill-billies, shammin' everything but work.

We uns was pow'ful glad to hear 'bout them Kahki Kids thru the S. W. C. Keller; but we heard by word o' mouth last night that them rife-toters are goin' so dern nice that they're bein' vamped by the Gen's.

Agood one is told on a certain Sorrel Top Sergeant what's up in the camp. The other mornin', just at daylight, this red Non-com. was sittin' on a box tryin' to scribe a letter to a certain dark-haired fairy down at the Bay, when all of a sudden one of them doughboys woke up with a start, jumped out in the Company Ave. with a loud "Hot-Dog!"

The Sarge bust loose at him: "What th' hell's th' matter with you?" "Oh, 'Scuse me, Sarge, I thought I was late an' you was the sun risin'!"

Pete Monte says they ain't put one of our boys in "Hotel," yet, so you know, Prunella, they MUST be pretty fairly on good behavior, eh?

We got a card from Loot Arce-neab, an' he wises us that Cap. Waller an' him has got the world by the neck an' a down hill pull on it. Go to it, Loot.

What Don't Lie. This column never entered in a contract to boost any guy's game; but, Bo, we rise to state that this Bull is in the race to a FINISH when it comes to boostin' the beautiful burg where we first saw the mullet jump an' heard the moan of the sad sea waves—where we was first on the receivin' end of Ma's slipper an' learned to say ain't instead isn't.

Therefore an' thusly or but—what a good bug needs ALL the time is a BOOST, an' to boost is to keep your burg where the outsiders can SEE it; heretofore all this boostin' has been done with a long line of BULL, which was printed on fancy paper, sent out to Mr. Public. In many cases the genial Mr. F. M. didn't have time to scrutinize the scribble, an' either dumped it in the waste-basket or turned it over an' used it for scratch paper. All of which, Bo, was a record of LOSS.

The way to do the thing RIGHT is to put it where the same genial Mr. P. will HAVE to look at it. So, an' finely the stuff that No one can give the Ha, Ha, to is in PICTURES. Bo, they CAN'T lie, an' if they're MOVIN' so much the better.

We have with us on this most auspicious occasion, ahem, that which we require; all to the viz: a Motion Picture outfit, cravin' to BOOST the BURG.

Put Bay St. Louis on the screen (shell vamp the world); let the folks up in the overcoat country SEE us as we be, an' they'll do the rest.

But, Bo, to do THAT it takes the folks an' them in business in ALL get-together form. It takes what Bro. John calls Unity, a few Iron-men an' a lotta push till the roller rolls, an' then the Muzuma'll come back doubled up.

Don't everybody talk at once, please, you'll have a chance to subscribe.

Liace Jimmy & The Jane. We see by the press that Jimmy of the Long Liace, what's shootin' at the job of Senator once more, in the race against that political Jane is gettin' His'n: Lil Woodrow (he's the guy, you member, who took his Rib for a trip to Paris, an' we paid for it) slams one at Jimmy just like he was Mad an' hopes that the long-haired boy will be in the "also-rans." He don't say nothin' 'bout Miss Belle, but, Bo, I reckon he think some on it, an' if he's got time we'd like to hear him explode ergin.

The Magnolia State's in to LOSE, Bo, no matter who she sends up to the Nation's Cap. to take John Sharp's place. WON'T fill the shoes like old man Williams did. No matter who we hope, for friend Pat's sake, that he won't have to shove his stogie out'n the window whenever he does into conference. We believe in a Jane Senator as much as we believe powder on a man's nose.

What does a crazy guy walkin' long seashore remind you of? If a Jane lost her Maid, would her Vanity Dresser? If you wanted the Recipe, would Eagle Eye give it to you? If Charlie's Pug wins a few m-

What's the REAL speed record of the Modern Jane?

We'll now sing that syncopated ditty: "We'll meet you at the Club House Door."
